THE Democratic press is making a desperate effort to revive the old Sherman-Foraker factional contest.— Bowling Green Sentinel.

The Democratic press is making no such effort. It only had to say "sick 'em, John, sick 'em, Joe," and fur flew in the same old way. It was very easy, and extremely simple. No task at all. But the Republicans can stop the fight, if they wish, by killing off both Sherman, and Foraker. We know of no other way.

Оню Democrats are to be congratulated on the many plucky fights they have made during the past thirty years. With a normal majority of some thirty thousand against them, the party has always met the enemy on the dead line and has won many conspicious victories. They point with pride to the administrations of Allen, Bishop, Hoadley and Campbell and rejoice over the fact that they have always put up a good fight and have never lowered the flag in the face of the enemy. There are, always has been and doubtless always will be, divisions in the party as to party policy and party leaders, but when it comes to the ballot there is harmony. —Toledo Critic.

easticat? in our correctory circummon and its frequent concentration in financial centers when it is most needed in other parts of the country. The absolute divorcement of the government from the business of banking is the ideal relationship of the government to the circulation of the currency of the country.

This condition can not be immediately reached; but as a step in that direction and as a means of securing a more clastic currency and obviating other objections to the present arrangement of bank circulation, the secretary of the treasury presents in his report a scheme modifying present banking laws and providing for the issue of circulating notes by state banks free from taxation under certain limitations.

The secretary explains his plan so plainly and its advantages are developed by him with such remarkable clearness, that any effort on my part to present argument in its support would be superfluous; I shall, therefore, content myself with an unqualified indersement of the secretary's proposed changes in the law and a brief and imperfect statement of their prominent features.

It is proposed to repeat all laws providtheir prominent features.

It is proposed to repeal all laws providing for the deposit of United States bonds as security for circulation, to permit national banks to issue circulating notes not as security for circulation, to permit national banks to issue circulating notes not exceeding in amount 75 per cent of their paid up and unimpaired capital provided they deposit with the government, as a guarantee fund, in United States legal tender notes, including treasury notes of 1890, a sum equal in amount to 30 per cent of the notes they desire to issue, this deposit to be maintained at all times, but whenever any bank retires any part of its circulation a proportional part of its guarantee fund shall be returned to it; to permit the secretary of the treasury to prepare and keep on hand ready for issue in case an increase in circulation is desired blank national bank notes for each bank having circulation and to repeal the provisions of the present law imposing limitations and restrictions upon banks desiring to reduce or increase their circulation—thus permitting such increase or reduction within the limit of 75 per cent of capital to be quickly made as emergencies arise.

In addition to the guarantee fund required, it is proposed to provide a safety fund for the immediate redemption of the circulating notes of falled banks, by imposing a small annual tax, say one-half of redeem or retire its notes in the first instance at its own office or at agencies to be designated by it, that no fixed reserve need be maintained on account of deposits.

Another very important feature of this plan is the exemption of state banks from taxation by the United States in cases where it is shown to the satisfaction of the secretary of the treasury and comptroller of the currency by banks claiming such exemption that they have not had out standing their circulating notes exceeding 75 per cent of their paid up and unimpalsed capital; that their stockholders are individually liable for the redemption of their ownership of stock; that the liability of said banks upon their circulating notes constitutes under their state law a first lien upon their assets; that such banks have keptand maintained a guarantee fund in United States legal tender notes, including treasury notes of 1830 equal to 30 per cent of their outstanding circulating notes, and that such banks have promptly redeemed their circulating notes when presented at their principal or branch offices.

It is quite likely that this scheme may be usefully amended in some of its details, but I am satisfied it furnishes a basis for a very great improvement in our present banking and currency system.

I conclude this communication fully appreciating that the responsibility for all legislation affecting the people of the United States rests upon their representatives in the congress, and assuring them that whether in accordance with recommendations I have made or not I shall be glad to co-operate in perfecting any legislation that tends to the prosperity and welfare of our country.
